

Ken Garrett

Ken became a Christian when he was a teenager. After a few years in the military he spent 23 years working as a paramedic in Portland. In 2003 he completed training at Western Seminary and was called to be pastor of Grace Bible Church the next year.

Ken says “Of course, there’s a lot more to my story than just that – like the whole ongoing story of God’s tender and miraculous deliverance of my life, before AND after I became a follower of Jesus. My personal experience of Christianity has seemed like one lesson after another teaching me of my desperate need for God’s daily touch in my life – forgiving, empowering, assuring and loving me.”
